

DISCLAIMER

By accessing the Mom: In-Process podcast or website or any links supplied within, you understand and agree that your use of any products, advice, services, information, recommendations and content found on Mom In - Process are not to be interpreted or translated as professional medical advice or professional mental health or physical health advice. This podcast should not be viewed as any type of professional advice. The podcast creators, guests, or contributors assume no liability for the actions taken by its listeners and Mom: In-Process can in no way whatsoever be held responsible for the application or uses of information received by the listeners. The views expressed on Mom: In-Process by the host and the guests are for entertainment purposes only and are to only be utilized at your own risk. We do not make any guarantee to the accuracy in the podcast or results reflected in your actions as a result thereof. You may not edit or alter this podcast without expressed written consent of Mom: In-Process. Always consult your designated health care professional before beginning any new health regimen.